Another act accomplished before the separation of Hatfield from Hadley was the authorization to provide for a burying ground on the west of the river. These votes are taken from the town records, the dates being old style ( really in 1670 )

Feb.14 1669. The side hath chose a committee being John Cowles, Senr., Richard Billings, Isaac Graves, Samuel Belding and Daniel White for to view a piece of land for a burying place upon the Plain near Thomas Meekins his piece of land that lyeth on the southwest side of the mill river beyond the bridge that is in the highway that goeth over toward Northampton.

Feb.16 1669. The side at a meeting did agree that it should be twenty rod long easterly and westerly and eight rod wide southerly and northerly, and that it should be in the place where they have determined it should be, which is by the side of the afoersaid land of Thomas Meekins.

It may be taken for granted that it was located forthwith where they "determined" and has been from that time onward. No permanent markers for the graves were used at first. The earliest date on a stone in the old burying ground on the "Hill" is on the grave of Capt. John Allis, 1691.

The probability is that the settlers who died before 1670 were buried on the other side of the river in the Hadley burying ground. ( From Hist. of Hatfield, p.61 )
